

Who Must Complete This Application?

In order to do business within the gaming industry in Saskatchewan, a business must apply to the Saskatchewan Liquor and Gaming Authority (SLGA) for a supplier gaming and non-gaming goods and services certificate of registration. When determining whether a business is qualified to be registered, SLGA considers the business itself, its key people, and any other businesses and individuals that have direct contact with the business applying for registration. The individuals identified by SLGA as key people must complete a personal disclosure form.

Definition of a Key Person

SLGA defines key people as:

- suppliers of gaming and non-gaming goods and services who are individuals or partners,
- a person who owns 5% or more of a supplier's business,
- a person who, in the opinion of SLGA, has control over, has provided direct or indirect financing to, or has a beneficial interest in the supplier, the supplier's business, or an affiliated corporation of the supplier, and
- members of the board of directors, key stakeholders, officers and senior executive like the CFO, CEO, Executive Directors and Vice Presidents.

In addition to the above, SLGA may request a personal disclosure form from any individual associated with the supplier that SLGA considers necessary. Individuals identified by SLGA as key people must complete a personal disclosure form.

Eligibility and Suitability

To qualify for registration as a gaming or non-gaming supplier, a business and its key people must:

- be of good character,
- be financial stable with a history of financial solvency,
- be capable of providing supplies and services and demonstrate a level of skill, experience, knowledge, and ability necessary to supply the supplies and services for which the applicant is requesting certification,
- be in compliance with Canadian provincial and federal tax laws, and
- be of legal age to transact business in the gaming industry.

A business is not eligible for registration if the business or any of its key people:

- has been convicted of a criminal offense involving, but not limited to, theft, deceit, public morals, gaming, customs, income tax, firearms or drugs. (Note that a criminal conviction in and of itself, does not represent risk to the integrity of the gaming industry. A conviction in the context of good character is weighed against the circumstances, the nature and the length of time since the offense, and evidence of rehabilitation.)
- has been found to be liable in a civil court involving fraud, deceit, misrepresentation or breach of trust.
- has displayed conduct exemplifying a lack of good character.
- has provided false or misleading information.
- has a history of problem gambling, alcohol or drug abuse.
- has been denied a gaming registration or similar license in some other municipality, province, state or county.
- is insolvent.
- fails to provide documents required by Section 147 of The Alcohol and Gaming Regulation Act, 1997.

Due Diligence Review

SLGA may make inquiries and/or conduct a due diligence review with respect to your character, financial responsibility and capability of your business. SLGA will determine whether or not they will investigate you based on your position within the company combined with your responsibilities and decision making capabilities. If SLGA does conduct a due diligence review into your suitability, you are required to provide any information and/or access to any records that SLGA considers necessary. These records include, but are not limited to, your personal, business, financial and income tax records and your criminal record.

In most cases, your review will be done in conjunction with the investigation of the supplier application.

Good Character Requirements

SLGA determines if a business and its key people are of good character by reviewing all aspects of their personal, financial, business and criminal history.

Criminal Record Checks

When you sign the consent, you are giving SLGA permission to obtain and release information, including a criminal record check.

All key people who are not citizens or naturalized citizens of Canada and who reside outside of Canada must provide a Criminal Record Check from their local police agency. SLGA will accept any form prescribed and completed by the police agency or they can use the SLGA form titled Consent to a Criminal Record Check and submit that form to the police agency for completion. A copy of the SLGA form is attached to the back of this form. Fingerprint submissions are not required.

If you are not able to obtain a criminal record check from your local police agency, attach an appendix explaining why.

Renewal of Suitability

You or your business will be notified when it is time for you to submit a personal disclosure renewal form. In most cases, this is done when the business is required to renew their supplier registration.
